Some people believe fortune-tellers can tell fortunes. Every country has fortune-tellers, and they have been there for several thousand years.

Fortune-tellers use different ways to do their work. In some countries, to see into a person's future, fortune-tellers look at a person's hand. There are lines across and down the hand. These lines are different for everyone. Some are thin, some are thick, some long and some short. Each of the lines means something. One line tells a fortune-teller if and when a person will have a wife or husband. Another line tells the fortune-teller how long that person will live. Other lines tell the fortune-teller other things, like what kind of work a person will have in the future.

Some fortune-tellers 'read' cards. These cards can be playing cards or the Tarot cards. Some people say they can tell a lot about a person's future life by looking at the cards.

Many Chinese use the I Ching, Book of Changes, to find out about their futures. First, the person asks a question and then throws some coins and looks at the way they fall. After that, the fortune-teller reads the I Ching to find out what the coins mean.
