ChatGPT is a smart computer program to talk with you. Gemini, _____, likes not only chatting, it also likes math, law, or making up stories.

Chat GPT, as the first AI chatbot of OpenAI, is good at answering questions and chatting. You need an email address and sometimes you need to pay for using it. It learns from the conversations with people. What's more, it can chat about anything you ask on many topics. It responds to what you type or ask. It is really a good tool for answering all kinds of questions. But the information it gives is sometimes wrong because its database is not updated after 2021. It can only get data before 2021.

As for Gemini, Google's latest chatting robot, is not just good at chatting. It is perfect for finding answers by using texts voices, pictures, or videos. Not like ChatGPT, it not only learns from the conversations with people, but it is always learning by connecting to Google apps, like Gmail or GoogleSheet to get updated real-time answers from the Internet. That's why the information is often correct. It is free to use Gemini, but you need a Google account to use it.

Both are good tools for learning, but don't totally rely on the AI Chatbot to do the learning. They are still learning and will make mistakes. Always remember to check the answers from other sources.
