【A】

ASMR, which stands for Autonomous Sensory Meridian Response, is a special feeling some people get from certain sounds or sights. It makes them feel relaxed and sometimes even tingly! Common triggers include soft whispering, tapping sounds, and watching someone do something very carefully.

When someone experiences ASMR, they might get a pleasant tingling feeling that starts at the top of their head and travels down their back. It can help them feel calm and peaceful, even helping them fall asleep or reduce stress.

Many people watch ASMR videos to relax. These videos often have whispering, tapping, or soft actions. However, not everyone experiences ASMR, and that's okay! Just like different flavors of ice cream, some people like chocolate ice cream and others like strawberries, what's important is finding what makes you feel happy and relaxed in your own way.

 tingly 麻麻地 trigger 引發因素 whispering 耳語 tapping 輕拍的 pleasant 愉快的

(D) Different Feelings Help People Experience a Peaceful Way
31. () Where might someone get a pleasant tingling feeling when experiencing ASMR?
(A) Bottom of their feet
(B) Top of their head
(C) Knees
(D) Back
32. () Why is it okay if not everyone experiences ASMR?
(A) Because ASMR is not real.
(B) Because only careful people experience ASMR.
(C) Because no one likes the same flavor of ice cream.
(D) Because everyone is unique and different.

For a long time, people have always wished for AI robots to help with our work. But now that it's happening, it may turn out to be more of a nightmare. We hoped AI robots would do our tasks, so we'd have more playtime. But when an AI robot takes over a job, someone might lose theirs and have to find a new one quickly. And finding a job that AI robots can't do is hard.

More and more jobs might be done by AI robots soon. By 2030, 45% of jobs in the USA could be done by them. This means AI robots could do lots of different jobs. For example, they may soon be working as nurses, teachers, clerks, cleaners, and even writers. Computers already write some news articles. Maybe even the article you're reading now was written by an AI robot!

As we get used to more AI robots helping out, we have questions about what it means for jobs and people's lives. AI robots doing boring tasks might sound good, but it brings challenges, too. Figuring out how to use AI robots while taking care of people who might lose their jobs is important for the future. After all, people want AI robots and humans to live together happily.

 (B) AI robots are dangerous.
 (C) AI robots can teach children.
 (D) Humans are better than AI robots.
34. () According to the reading, which is NOT true?
- (A) There are already AI robot writers.
 (B) A study says over 40% of US work will be done by AI robots by 2030.
 (C) People will never lose their jobs because they are smarter.
 (D) Humans have dreamed of AI robot workers for a long time.
35. () What does "it" mean?
- (A) The nightmare of AI robot workers.
 (B) Humans have more playtime.
 (C) Finding jobs for humans.
 (D) The dream of AI robot workers.

【C】

When young children work, we call it child labor. The work is often not safe or not healthy for them. In the past, child labor was popular. Today, most countries think child labor to be wrong.

Being poor is the main reason children work. Families send their children to work because the family needs the money. Employers often like children more than adult workers because they can pay less money, and children are easier to control.

Some places in the world do not ask children to go to school or only let some children go. Some children may experience discrimination, or others may treat them unfairly. Some people choose to send girls or minority group members to work but not to school because they believe they don't need to learn.

The UK made laws in 1833 to limit child labor, followed by the US in 1938. In 1999, many countries of the UN agreed to stop bad child labor. The number of child laborers is decreasing worldwide. However, child labor remains a big problem in many parts of the world.
